Activities of the Cosmic Rescue Alliance in Material Solar Systems

Following the personal message of the Divine Spirit for the Herald, your inner self also receives a short message about us celestial beings according to the divine directive concerning the imminent evacuation of mentally advanced humans by different-looking extraterrestrial beings, who shall be rescued from the earth before the pole shift takes place. They are peace-loving beings in a spiritually higher state of consciousness, with a fairly advanced technology that is far ahead of humanity's. The extraterrestrials, who have various spaceship designs with different propulsion systems, enjoy several possibilities for movement along the cosmic light paths. They were prepared by the divine Love Spirit for the celestial beings already on the cosmic moment of their rescue operation. With their voluntary action, they want to show people that they are well-meaning and are trying to save those who are sympathetic and not afraid of them – even though the appearance of some of the beings do not resemble the attractive human form – from the terrible catastrophe on earth.

Their warm and compassionate way of life motivates them into other solar systems to conduct rescue operations. This happens, for example, when the energy-giving sun of the orbiting planets and living beings of a solar system is nearing extinction at its core or their material particles can no longer absorb any further energy recharging from the great galactic sun. This means that the solar particles can no longer hold together in their predetermined magnetically connected position and explosively fall to pieces. As a result, the orbiting planets are either completely destroyed or the disintegrated planetary parts are hurled as enormous pieces of rock at great speeds into the infinitely wide material cosmos. Like comets on certain light paths, they suddenly enter uncontrollably into other solar systems, making them a major threat to the planets and their inhabitants. This often happened in your solar system as well as on Earth, at one time coming to a terrible collision.

But just before a solar blast or other dreadful catastrophe, they take note of the data of their control systems, and the allied beings of various galaxies launch their spaceships into the threatened solar system and begin a major evacuation of the planet's inhabitants.

As you have learned from the Divine Spirit, the extraterrestrials are not only cosmically active in other galaxies and solar systems, but will soon begin a rescue operation on your planet as well. They know, from their earlier creation of the material galaxies and their solar systems, that the material sun particles are only able to recharge and survive a limited cosmic time through their energy core. For this reason, inhabitants of various galaxies have voluntarily joined together to form a Cosmic Rescue Alliance, which has set itself the task of guarding the endangered suns and planets in some solar systems inhabited by beings with unmanned spaceships in order to regularly record their status data. From the nature of the solar particles, they can accurately determine how long a sun can still be active to sustain planetary life.

The control and determination of the status data of the sun and planet particles has happened and happens regularly in your solar system. Therefore, they know exactly when the time will come when your sun can no longer magnetically hold its particles together due to the lack of energy in their core. For this reason, they regularly circle your sun with huge unmanned spacecraft, which provide them with the necessary data from the sun's core to their home planet.

The currently gathered data is not good news for humanity. However, scientific data about the state of your sun from the spacecraft orbiting your planets regarding the actual reality is deceiving. Compared to extraterrestrial technology, your technology is still in the Stone Age, so scientists on earth are getting incorrect data and telling you through the media that the sun is still young and the Earth can sustain life for a long time. But this is a fatal error or misjudgment by your scientists by way of measurements with imperfect technical devices.

Now, those extraterrestrial beings that are members of the Cosmic Rescue Alliance are alerted and prepared to rescue humans of higher consciousness, as well as being able to travel with their spaceships at terrestrial time X and take them to planets in other solar systems where Earth-like atmospheric and physical living conditions are to be found.

Truly, humans rescued or taken away by the extraterrestrial beings in spaceships will then temporarily reside on a planet in their solar system, where they will be able to continue their already aspired to spiritually higher life, but under simpler living conditions than on Earth, because many external events prevented them from doing so. For this, they receive extensive support from the extraterrestrial beings, sharing with them the basic concepts of their more advanced life, so that they can adapt well to their way of life and planetary vibration. Particularly invaluable is their support or care in the area of housing and their diet, so they do not lack for anything. The homes built for the evacuees contain the kind of facilities that people on earth are used to. Since the extraterrestrials have been to your planet with their spaceships more than once, they know exactly how people live and what they need for their livelihood, and accordingly they have prepared everything for a carefree existence.

The higher-level extraterrestrial beings have almost the same appearance as humans, but different living habits that enable them to live together in peace, harmony and unity. The evacuees should orient themselves to this, otherwise they will not fit in with them. For unwilling people, this would mean that they would have to be moved to other, lower-vibrating, inhabited planets, where some of their unlawful ways of life fit in better with their resident beings.

Those evacuated beings who are taken to higher vibrating planets are truly lucky in the human sense, because they can quickly reach a higher consciousness with the extraterrestrial beings, if they voluntarily strive for this. On the extraterrestrial planets with beings of higher consciousness, no other being or human is forced to open up to a higher consciousness. However, there is a great emphasis on the new residents helping each other reproduce the noble qualities recommended for adoption by spiritually mature planets.

Their mode of communication is not conducted in a particular language, as humans are accustomed to, but there is an inner telepathic understanding of thought-images, which is certainly closer to that of the celestial beings. This type of communication will be experienced and practiced by the evacuees. It allows the beings or even the evacuated people to conserve their own energies and therefore be more energetic in consciousness, because pronounced words consume more energy than thoughts formed in the human consciousness and sent telepathically. Therefore, people with different nationalities and languages who have been taken by the extraterrestrials can communicate with each other without any problems in understanding. This is possible only because they live on the new planet in a higher vibration of consciousness, since the atmosphere and the solid particles of the soil surface have greater energies. For this reason, it is quite possible for humans to visualize their own thoughts in pictures and select those that they want to telepathically forward to other people or the extraterrestrials. Can you already understand this spiritual legitimacy and possibility of understanding of higher beings?

Well, your world in which you are still living, created by the former renegade, fallen beings many cosmic aeons ago, cannot be sustained for much longer, because it threatens the planet Earth in the near future with one disaster after another, hitting people hard on different continents. But this is not a blessing of the Divine Spirit, instead it is the psycho-human causes of innumerable people and earthbound souls, and these will happen before the pole shift. At this time, extraterrestrials of various appearances will begin to circle the Earth visibly with countless spaceships and magnetically attract people who have their same higher level of consciousness vibration into their spaceships. Through the work of the extraterrestrial beings, you spiritually oriented people have already received much knowledge from the Spirit of God through other messages of the Herald, so he does not speak of celestial beings any further.

He asks the sincere open-minded people over and over again to hear that they are prepared for the time of the evacuation and to do everything possible for their psychic consciousness vibration to develop even further, thereby increasing their life energies. Please pay attention to his advice and set out to bring your psychic consciousness into a higher vibration; for example, by deliberately using more noble words, because this will cleanse your soul of low-vibration memories much faster than if you speak thoughtlessly.

This was a short message of the extraterrestrial spirit of celestial beings for receptive, spiritually-minded people, who are eager to collect more divine bits of knowledge for their consciousness expansion and essence refinement to bring us closer in consciousness to pure celestial beings. If this happens, then we are very pleased by it!
